PREAMBLE

The systematic marginalization of the majority of South Africans, facilitated by exclusionary policies of the apartheid regime, prevented Black Persons, as defined herein, from owning the means of production and from meaningful participation in the mainstream economy. Through its continued support and implementation of discretionary policies and practices, the mining and minerals sector, which dominated the South African political and socio-economic order, brought about inequalities in the mining industry.

To redress these historic inequalities, and thus give effect to section 9 (equality clause) of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 (Act 108 of 1996) (“Constitution”), the democratic government enacted, inter alia, the Mineral and Petroleum Resources Development Act, 2002 (Act No. 28 of 2002) (“MPRDA”).

The primary objective of the MPRDA is to ensure the attainment of Government objectives of redressing historical, socio-economic inequalities and to ensure broad based and meaningful participation of Black Persons in the mining and minerals industry. To this end, section 100 (2) (a) of the MPRDA empowers the Minister to develop a Broad Based Black Economic Empowerment Charter for the South African Mining and Minerals Industry (“Mining Charter”) as a regulatory instrument to effect transformation by meeting specific targets within specified timeframes.

In 2009, the Department conducted a comprehensive assessment to ascertain the progress of transformation in the mining industry against the objectives and agreed targets contained in the Mining Charter. The assessment revealed a number of shortcomings in the mining industry’s implementation of the various elements of the Charter, viz. Ownership, Procurement, Employment Equity, Beneficiation, Human Resource Development, Mine Community Development, and Housing and Living Conditions. To address these shortcomings, the Mining Charter was amended to streamline and expedite the attainment of its objectives. In addition to this, the amended Mining Charter introduced the sustainable development element, which sought to ensure sustainable transformation and growth of the mining industry.

In 2014, a decade after the Mining Charter came into effect, the Department conducted a second assessment of mining companies' compliance with agreed targets contained in the Mining Charter. This second assessment revealed the following:

- Despite a noticeable improvement in levels of compliance, the mining industry is still unacceptably far from being fully transformed.
- Notwithstanding a paucity of companies of all sizes that have fully embraced the spirit of the Mining Charter, extremely varied performance by most companies suggests a generally compliance-driven mode of implementation, primarily designed to protect (their) the latter's "social license to operate".
- Whereas the MPRDA has effectively transferred ownership of the mineral wealth of the country to all the people of South Africa under the custodianship of the State, a proliferation of communities living in abject poverty continues to be characteristic of the surroundings of mining operations.
- Limited progress has been made in embracing broad-based empowerment ownership to achieve meaningful economic participation of Black South Africans. The trickled flow of benefits which sought not only to service debt, but also to provide cash-flow directly to BEE partners, is wholly inadequate to this end, the interests of mineworkers and communities are typically held in nebulously defined Trusts, which constrain the flow of benefits to intended beneficiaries. As a result, the mining industry has broadly been faced with increasing tensions from both workers and host communities.

It is against this backdrop that Government initiated another comprehensive review process in 2015 aimed at strengthening the efficacy of the Mining Charter as a tool for effecting broad based and meaningful transformation of the mining and minerals industry.

The review process takes into account the need to align and integrate Government policies to remove ambiguities in respect of interpretation and create regulatory certainty. In this regard, the reviewed Mining Charter is aligned to the provisions of the Broad-Based Black Economic Empowerment Act, 2003 (Act No. 53 of 2003) (BBBEE Act) and the Codes of Good Practice ("DTI Codes"), Employment Equity Act, 1998 (Act No. 55 of 1998) and other relevant regulatory frameworks.

In reviewing the Mining Charter, it is recognised that competitiveness, growth and transformation are mutually re-enforcing. To this end, the reviewed Mining Charter introduces new definitions, terms and targets to harmonise with the BBBEE Act and the Dti Codes. The alignment of these policies is intended to ensure meaningful participation of Black Persons in accordance with the objects of the MPRDA and to provide for policy and regulatory certainty thereby facilitating transformation and growth of the mining industry.

VISION

To facilitate sustainable transformation, growth and development of the mining industry.

MISSION

To give effect to section 100 (2) (a) of the MPRDA, section 9 of the Constitution and harmonise Government's transformation policies.

A right holder is required to promote economic growth through the development or nurturing of small medium and micro enterprises and suppliers of mining goods and services to the mining industry and other sectors of the economy. To achieve this, a right holder must identify all goods and services that will be required in its operations and ensure that its procurement policies adhere to the following criteria:

SECRET AND STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL2.2.4 ENTERPRISE AND SUPPLIER DEVELOPMENT

The purpose for implementation of supplier and enterprise development is to strengthen local procurement, enhance the ease and cost competitiveness of sourcing mining goods and services and build South Africa's industrial base in critical sectors of production and value addition.

A right holder may invest in enterprise and supplier development against which it may offset its procurement element obligations as follows:

2.2.4.1 MINING GOODS

(a) Up to 5 % of the total procurement budget on mining goods may be offset using supplier development.

2.2.4.2 SERVICES

(a) Up to 10% of the total procurement budget on services (excluding non-discretionary expenditure) may be offset using supplier and enterprise development.

2.2.4.3 Percentages referred to in 2.2.4.1 and 2.2.4.2 must be implemented as follows:

- (a) Supplier and Enterprise Development must only be invested on BEE entrepreneurs with a turnover of less than R50 million per annum;

2.2.6 PROCESSING OF SAMPLES

- (a) A right holder must utilise South African based companies for the analysis of 100% of all mineral samples across the mining value chain, except in cases where samples are analysed for calibration of local laboratories.
- (b) A right holder may not conduct sample analysis using foreign based facilities or companies without the prior written consent of the Minister as prescribed in the Mining Charter implementation guideline.

2.2.7 CONTRIBUTION BY FOREIGN SUPPLIERS

A Foreign Supplier must contribute a minimum of 0,5% of its annual turnover generated from local mining company/ies towards development of suppliers to be directed to the Mandela Mining Precinct for research purposes.

SECRET AND STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL2.2.8 SUBMISSION OF DATA

A right holder must submit data on its annual purchases as prescribed in the implementation guidelines, using a common product classification system, to the Department.

2.3 HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT

The mining industry is knowledge based and thus hinges on Human Resource Development, constituting an integral part of social transformation at workplace and sustainable growth. It is therefore the objective of the Mining Charter to produce a skilled, trained and diverse workforce that meets the demands of a modern mining industry, develop skills that enhance productivity of the workforce and improve the employment prospects of persons previously disadvantaged by unfair discrimination and development of entrepreneurial skills that not only improve the livelihoods in our society, but also create mining-led local and regional economic diversification.

In this regard, a right holder must invest 5% of the leviable amount (excluding the mandatory statutory skills levy) on essential skills development. To achieve this objective, a right holder must invest the 5% in the following manner:

- (a) Invest 3.5% of the leviable amount on essential skills development activities such as science, technology, engineering, mathematics skills as well as artisans, bursaries, literacy and numeracy skills for employees and non-employees (community members);

SECRET AND STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

- (b) Invest 1.5% of the leviable amount towards South African Public Academic Institutions, Science Councils or research entities for the development of solutions in exploration, mining, processing, technology efficiency (energy and water use in mining), beneficiation as well as environmental conservation and rehabilitation;
- (c) Research and Development expenditure contemplated in paragraph (b) above must qualify for the R&D Tax Allowance (Income Tax Act, Section 11D); and
- (d) The skilling and research investment referred to in paragraph (a) and (b) respectively must be apportioned in proportion with national or provincial demographics.

2.4 EMPLOYMENT EQUITY

The purpose of this element is to achieve equity in the workplace by promoting equal opportunity and fair treatment in employment through elimination of unfair discrimination; and implementing affirmative action measures to redress disadvantages in the workplace experienced by designated groups, in order to ensure their equitable representation in all occupational levels of the workforce.

In order to be consistent with the Employment Equity Act, workplace diversity and equitable representation at all levels are catalysts for social cohesion, transformation and competitiveness of the mining industry. In order to create a conducive environment to ensure diversity as well as participation of Black Persons at all decision-making positions and core occupational categories in the mining industry, a right holder must achieve a minimum threshold of Black Persons which is reflective of the provincial or national demographics as follows:

SECRET AND STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL2.4.1 BOARD

A minimum of 50% Black Persons with exercisable voting rights proportionally represented, 20% of which must be black women.

2.4.4 MIDDLE MANAGEMENT

A minimum of 60% of Black Persons in Middle Management proportionally represented, 20% of which must be black women.

2.4.5 JUNIOR MANAGEMENT

A minimum of 70% Black Persons in Junior Management proportionally represented, 25% of which must be black women.

A right holder must ensure that a minimum of 60% Black Persons are represented in the right holder's core and critical skills by diversifying its existing pools. Core and critical skills must include science, technology, engineering and mathematical skills representation across all organisational levels. To achieve this, a right holder must:

- (a) Identify and implement its existing pools in line with the approved Social and Labour Plan.
- (b) The abovementioned implementation must be reflective of demographics.

Career progression (aligned with Social and Labour Plan)

A right holder must develop and implement a career progression plan consistent with the demographics of the country by providing the following:

SECRET AND STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

indicated under this element may change in order to address employment equity measures.

2.5 MINE COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

Mine communities form an integral part of mining development, which requires a balance between mining and mine community's socio-economic development needs. A right holder must meaningfully contribute towards Mine Community Development with biasness towards mine communities both in terms of impact, in keeping with the principles of the social license to operate.

To this end, a right holder must, in consultation with relevant municipalities, mine communities, traditional authorities and affected stakeholders identify developmental priorities of mine communities.
